[illegible]

Handwritten text in a script, likely Pali or Sanskrit, arranged in three lines. The text is heavily faded and obscured by noise, making it largely illegible. The script appears to be a form of Indic script, possibly Pali, given the context of such documents. The characters are dark and the background is light, though the overall image quality is poor.

11a

Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in several horizontal lines across the leaf. The script is finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf. The leaf shows signs of age and wear, with some discoloration and a rough texture. The text appears to be a form of liturgical or philosophical writing, given the use of characters like 'Om' (ॐ) and the structured nature of the lines.

11b

Handwritten text in a script, likely Malayalam, arranged in four lines. The text is written on a palm leaf manuscript. The script is dark and appears to be a traditional form of Malayalam. The lines are separated by small gaps, and the text is written in a consistent, flowing manner. The first line starts with a small symbol, possibly a religious or administrative mark. The second line begins with a larger, more prominent symbol. The third and fourth lines continue the text in a similar style. The overall appearance is that of an ancient or historical document.

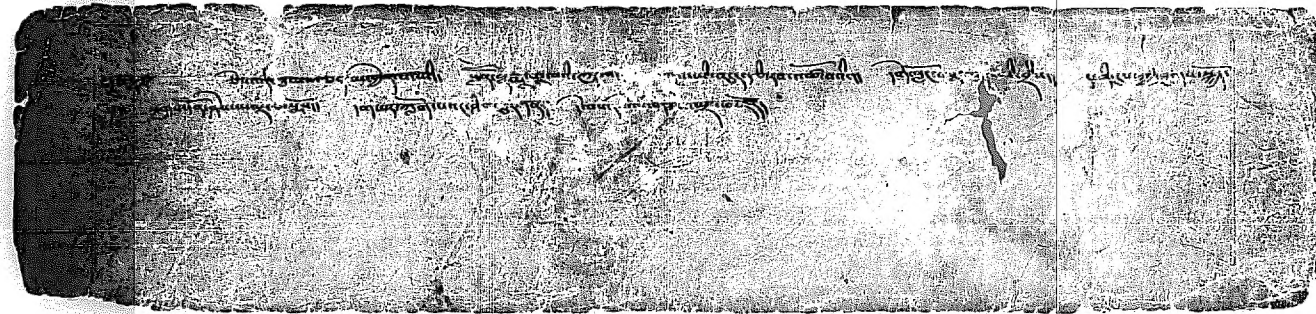

13a

Handwritten text in a script, likely Indic, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in several lines, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect. The leaf shows signs of wear and damage, particularly on the right side.

13b

Handwritten text in a script, likely Pali or Sanskrit, on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in several lines across the leaf, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect. The leaf shows signs of wear and damage, particularly along the edges and in the center where there is a large tear.
